ABBOTSFORD, BC: October 6, 2016 –On Thursday, October 6th 2016, at 6:20 AM, the Abbotsford Fire Rescue Service (AFRS) responded to a report of a structure fire at Lou's Bar and Grill, located at 2852 Gladys Avenue.

On arrival, AFRS crews found that the front side of the structure was fully involved, including the gas meter on the southwest corner of the building.

Fire crews initially isolated the burning gas meter while knocking down the fire on the front deck and the extension inside of the windows. While awaiting arrival of FortisBC to switch off the gas, crews controlled and contained the fire which had traveled into the second floor and the attic space. The fire was extinguished fully after the disconnection of power and gas to the building.

Six AFRS engines and approximately 35 firefighters attended the incident. APD, BC Hydro, FortisBC and BC Ambulance were also on the scene. There were no injuries to any civilians or emergency crews.

The fire damage was extensive and AFRS fire investigators determined that the fire cause was accidental in nature.
